BREST

A CASTLE WITH SEVENTEEN CENTURIES OF HISTORY

At the tip of Brittany, the Musée National de la Marine is housed in an imposing castle providing outstanding panoramic views over the natural harbour, the ports and the city. Trace the history of Brest's port, from its peak during the American War of Independence to the emblematic ships of the post-war period. The perfect place to learn about the strategic and economic importance of the sea!

PORT-LOUIS

A JOURNEY ACROSS THE FAR SEAS

Built on a rocky escarpment in 1618, the Port-Louis Citadel is one of Morbihan's must-see monuments and makes an outstanding setting for the Musée National de la Marine's collections. Set sail in the wake of sea rescuers and on the route to India's merchant ships. Model ships, paintings, objects and navigation instruments mark out an itinerary further enhanced by numerous videos.

TOULON

DISCOVERING AN ARSENAL WITH A REMARKABLE HISTORY

Set in the heart of Europe's most beautiful natural harbour, Toulon's Musée National de la Marine illustrates the story of France's biggest naval port. An outstanding memorial to the city's shipyard, its collections trace its incredible development, from Louis XIV's three-masters to the Charles-de-Gaulle nuclear-powered aircraft-carrier. Set off in discovery its human, artistic and technical story told through its model ships, relief maps, paintings, sculptures and scientific instruments.
